FROM THE PRESIDENTS DESK

CHANGE OF THE GUARD

The long serving AUSTRALIAN HONORARY CONSUL for Lae, Phil Franklin handed over the reins of the position, to Alan McLay in a ceremony during a buffet dinner hosted by the Australian High Commissioner, Her Excellency Ms. Deborah Stokes at the Lae International Hotel this week.

Lae to benefit from Aust aid

By FRANCO NEBAS

LAE will benefit directly from the agreement signed by the Australian and Papua New Guinea government on additional assistance to PNG.

Her Excellency Ms Deborah Stokes said this during the official buffet dinner to thank the outgoing Honorary Consul for Australia, Phil Franklin, in Lae yesterday.

Mr Franklin was replaced by long time Lae resident and president of Lae Chamber of Commerce, Alan McLay.

Ms Stokes said a Joint Understanding was signed by the two governments in July this year for additional Australian assistance to PNG, especially in health, education and law and order.

She said this will include Australia being partner with PNG in support of the reconstruction and management of the Angau Memorial hospital.

"This includes funding of senior management personal to operate under an independent hospital board, accelerated funding support for the implementation of the redevelopment master plan and scope of works, and 50 per cent of the capital costs associated with the reconstruction," she said.

PNG will fund the remaining 50 per cent and ongoing recurrent operational cost.

Ms Stokes said Lae would also benefit from the 50 Australian Federal Police personnel who under the Joint Understanding will be deployed to PNG to strengthen community policing and evidence based operations.

"The police will be deployed to Port Moresby and Lae before Christmas, where they will work hand in hand with RPNGC officers in advisory and mentoring capacities," she said.

She said PNG was like Australia, blessed with being rich in natural resources, but also with particular challenges to the economy from such riches.

"Australia is working closely with the PNG government to support the establishment of a credible sovereign wealth fund," she said.

Phil has been the Honorary Consul to Lae for 20 years, and was able to recount many incidents – some amusing – during his speech to accept a certificate of appreciation signed by the Australian Minister for Foreign Affairs.

The dinner became a highlight of the visit by Ms. Stokes and her team of Australian experts, at which she was able to visit a number of institutions and businesses including the new Lae Port, Angau Hospital, University of Technology and Trukai factory. She also met senior Provincial Public Servants including the Administrator as well as business leaders.

Ms. Stokes led three information sessions with respective experts, on the following topics:

1. New online Australian Visas
2. Opportunities for national and local business in Lae associated with the Resettlement Programme, and
3. The official opening of the AusAID Emergency Relief Supply Warehouse in Lae.

Ms. Stokes left Lae very impressed by the city's focus on manufacturing industries with the advantage of being centrally located for easy distribution of manufactured goods to the bulk of the country. For this reason, Lae was the natural site for the Emergency Supply Warehouse.

Reports on these information sessions appear on following pages.

If you choose to apply yourself, you will need access to a scanner and credit card. You can also provide your email address to receive timely communication about your application.

About the PNG Online Visitor

The PNG Online Visitor was introduced as a result of the close working relationship between the Australian and Papua New Guinea governments and to make it easier and more convenient to apply for a Visitor visa.

The PNG Online Visitor provides clients with an additional visa lodgement option. PNG citizens applying from PNG will now be able to apply for a visa to visit Australia without having to present or post their visa applications to the Australian Visa Application Centre. Processing times for the PNG Online Visitor are also fast where all relevant documents have been provided.

Applicants should note there are reduced documentary requirements for those who have held an Australian visa in the past two years. Please see the Document Checklist for details.

Business Opportunities

A Power Point presentation was made by the Australian High Commission at an Information Session on business opportunities associated with the Resettlement Programme, in the Lae International Hotel on Wednesday this week.

This presentation was to have been made available to the LCCI in time for today's newsletter but due to internet problems this has not been possible. It will be sent to members when it is received.

Neill Skill, the Deputy Assistant Secretary (Immigration and Citizenship), said that the program is committed to give local and national businesses as much opportunity to participate as possible.

So far the Manus Asylum temporary Centre has been expanded with 400 person accommodation being completed this week on an existing soccer field. The expansion of a further temporary centre at Lorengau will wait until after the Federal elections in Australia.

As reported in the following article, two companies Decmil (manage contracts) and Red Sea Housing (housing facilities) were selected to get the project underway and completed urgently. They have the internationally recognised qualifications to get projects moving in a hurry and Toll Logistics were used to make sure the project was run smoothly.

There is still a lot of work to be done – Refugees accommodation; Staff Accommodation (200 Bedroom); Primary Healthcare facility; Office Accommodation; Recreational Facilities, Office Block, Warehouse; Welfare Centre with consulting rooms etc.

Also there will be employment opportunities for tradesmen from all trades. Interested companies are asked to register their EOI at regionalinfrastructure@immi.gov.au (I will confirm this email address when I get further documents). All companies associated with the project will need to supply proof of having at least 50% PNG Workforce and provide training and mentoring for PNG Nationals (need for a detailed local participation and engaging plan). It was noted that the existing contracted companies Decmil and Red Sea Housing, will also need to comply with the 50% PNG workforce and Local Participation Plan.

It is envisaged that most food will be sourced from PNG, with only a small amount to come from Australia.

Further information will be made available when it is on hand.

AusAID Emergency Relief Supply Warehouse

On Thursday morning Ms. Stokes accompanied by Mr. James Hall, Deputy Head of Aid PNG officially opened the AusAID Emergency Relief Supply Warehouse in Lae. This warehouse is in the Express Freight Management yard, with the entrance from Able-Tasman Street.

The warehouse carries non-food supplies for instant dispersal for any disaster relief emergency.

Briefings for local businesses on accessing Manus Isl- and contracts

29 Aug 2013 by Business Advantage

The Australian Government has moved to allay fears that Papua New Guinea companies will lose out on valuable contracts as the Manus Island detention centre is developed by holding business briefings this week.

While Australian Government has reached an agreement with the O'Neill government to expand the asylum-seeker detention centre to cater for as many as 6,000 people, local businesses have complained that so far, non-PNG companies are the only beneficiaries of the new contracts.

According to Chey Scovell, Chief Executive Officer of the Manufacturers Council, local businesspeople were frustrated to learn that a Saudi Arabian company, Red Sea Housing, would provide accommodation. An Australian company, Decmil, has been given an AUD$137 million contract to build a new processing centre in the island's capital, Lorengau.

Scovell said local companies could provide these services.

A deputy secretary of Australia's Immigration Department, Neil Skill, is in the country this week to talk to local business leaders about how they can take advantage of contracts. Skill has been briefing business people on Manus Island, and in Lae and Port Moresby.

An Immigration Department statement from Canberra said Skill would 'provide an overview of the type of work to be undertaken at the permanent centre at Lorengau and the type that could be expected if the Lombrum centre is expanded further'.

Chey Scovell told Business Advantage PNG he hoped the briefings would outline the means by which local business people could access contracts.

How Australia's election could affect Manus Island

Australians go to the polls on 7 September to elect a new parliament. The outcome is likely to affect the country's immigration policy and by extension its arrangements in PNG.

If re-elected, the Labor Government's current policies would continue:

- Asylum seekers who arrive by boat will never be settled in Australia
- They will be sent to Manus Island or elsewhere in PNG for assessment
- Genuine refugees will be resettled in PNG
- The agreement will be in place for at least the next 12 months
- There will be no cap on the number of refugees to be settled in PNG
- Manus I detention centre to be expanded to house 3,000, up from its original capacity of 600
- Labor will increase Australia's refugee intake from 13,750 to 20,000 per year; at least 12,000 of those places to be quarantined for those refugees in overseas camps.
- If elected, a Liberal-National Coalition Government would:
- Direct the Australian Navy the turn boats back to Indonesia when it is safe to do so
- Establish a military-led response to border protection called Operation Sovereign Borders
- Mandatory detention for all boat arrivals
- Offshore processing on Nauru and Manus Island
- Boost capacity on Nauru to house 2,000 people, eventually up to 5,000
- Impose behaviour protocols on asylum seekers on bridging visas
- Prioritise claims of asylum seekers in refugee camps over claims of boat arrivals
- Maintain Australia's refugee intake at 13,750.

Crime Continues in Lae

Although the Police have certainly curbed crime significantly this week, there is still enough crime to indicate that everyone must still take all precautions necessary.

This morning a Guard Dog Security Services vehicle was attacked and shot at when picking up clients staff, at three mile.

Therefore our advice to all members is to continue your vigil, make sure you report any suspicious vehicles and unknown groups of people near your house or place of work. Secure your premises at all times and employ a security guard if possible. When driving lock all the doors and windows of your vehicle and avoid going into unknown or notably unsafe areas. Steer clear of unknown groups of people.

For upgrading 6
Further roads under
The LCRRP

LAE ROADS (Cont)

These tenders will see a proper design and redevelopment of the mentioned roads, which will link most of the planned roads under the Lae City Roads Rehabilitation Project.

The roads that are seemingly in a real mess at the moment are the ones that were started to be reconstructed with bitumen and then were stopped, so as to have the scope changed to cement. These are Bumbu Road from the Salvation Hostel to Kamkumung Bridge (FTM) and Markham Road from the Coronation Drive Junction to Chinatown (EW1). The excessive rain of course made the uncompleted work become a real mess.

We understand a tender for the reconstruction of Aircorp Road has already been approved by the CSTB and that a contract has been signed.

The LCCI has operated the Business Mentoring Programme in Lae for 10 months which has already seen many successes.

As mentioned last week the Lae Chamber of Commerce is an agent for the Pacific Business Mentoring Programme. The aim is to strengthen business enterprises (especially the smaller to medium sized) and to foster employment through a mentoring facility aimed at Lae Businesses. After our first 10 months we have established a good base of clientele, but as the programme is expanding, we are now looking at adding further clients:

- The feedback from existing Lae clients is extremely positive.
- We are looking for businesses that drive the economy (agriculture, export, import substitution, manufacturing)
- The New Zealand mentors are experienced business people and have helped many business owners with valuable input in all sorts of areas including marketing, financial understanding, staff issues etc
- The programme is free of charge and sponsored by NZAid
- Interested people should get in touch with Wendie at the Chamber on 472 2340 or at info@lcci.org.pg.
